

Increasingly, Denny and Dunipace teens are taking part in their community. In 2009 several local underpass murals brightened up our footpaths, thanks to funders and team work with local teens and mural artist Scott Gilbert. Denny High School teens ~ including young footballers ~ have begun to turn out for community litter picks. Teens at Denny Community Flat continue to work on projects such as murals, community gardening, creation of a mosaic and other initiatives. Denny for Youth is working on developing new activity space for youth, the YMCA is thriving. With the opening of the new high school, the slowly-but-surely upgrading of our footpaths and climate challenge concerns, more teens are choosing to walk or cycle to school. All good things!

CGI and the Denny & Dunipace Heritage Society are pleased with the level of involvement of local teens in the Denny Mills Oral History Project and encourage other groups to invite and involve our talented Denny and Dunipace teens in more cross-generational projects.

History is who we are and why we are the way we are. ~David McCullough
